

MOTHER KILLS BABES TAKES HER OWN LIFE

Shocking Tragedy of a Fairfield County Woman Supposed to Have Been Insane

Husband Returns Home and Finds Dead Wife in Pool of Blood and His Four Children Murdered.

Baltimore, O., Feb. 29.—In a fit of insanity Monday afternoon Mrs. Bettie May Spires, aged 35, wife of Joseph C. Spires, a farmer residing three miles west of Basil, killed three of her children, fatally wounded another and then committed suicide. One of the children was drowned in a well, the others were shot and their throats were cut. Mrs. Spires ended her own life by taking carbolic acid, cutting her throat and shooting herself in the head.

Mr. Spires had attended a farmers' institute at Carroll, and returning home at about dark found his son Jesse, aged one year, dead in his cradle downstairs with a bullet hole in his head. The man's calls failed to arouse any one and after looking through the downstairs rooms he went upstairs, where he found his son Alva, aged 4, and his daughter, Louella, aged 6, lying on the bed with the wife and mother in a pool of blood on the floor at their side. The woman and little girl were dead, but the boy was still alive. Mrs. Spires' head was resting on a pillow.

The woman had bullet hole in her head, her throat was cut from ear to ear and her lips showed that she had taken carbolic acid, the bottle, which contained the poison being found by her side, with the razor and revolver.

Each of the two children had been shot and their throats had been cut. There were five empty cartridges in the revolver.

Almost overcome by the discovery, Spires staggered to the home of a neighbor where he told of the tragedy and friends accompanied him back to Acker.

SECRET SERVICE MEN ON CASE

WILL SCOUR ITALIAN QUARTERS IN SEARCH OF CONSPIRATORS.

Threatening Letters Have Been Received by Chicago Priests and Rigid Investigations Will be Made.

Chicago, Feb. 29.—Two United States secret service men have been detailed to our Chicago's Italian quarter in search for supposed conspirators who have made inflammatory declarations against Roman Catholic priests and, perhaps, have planned an assassination similar to that of Rev. Leo Henrichs of Denver. Deportation awaits any foreigners discovered to have any part in any plot to arouse an anti-clerical sentiment.

"I have received from Chancellor E. M. Dunne papers which throw light on things that will be thoroughly investigated," said District Attorney Sims. "I have ordered two men to give their time exclusively to this matter and that is as far as I can speak at this time."

A packet of threatening letters sent Chicago priests is said to be included in the documents turned over to the federal attorney.

"No time will be wasted in deporting such persons as are proved to be spreading inflammatory matter against the clergy," said Commissioner Davies of the immigration department. "As for Emma Goldman, I have as yet had no orders from Washington."

Assistant Chief of Police Schuetler has received from Rev. Pasquale Renzillo, pastor of St. Roche's church at Chicago Heights, whose life was threatened, a copy of a paper published on Blue Island avenue.

In the correspondence column appears an anonymous letter of warning that is declared by the police to be highly objectionable.

Miss Calla had an appointment with her attorney at 2:30 o'clock yesterday, but she failed to appear. Two hours later, while a thousand men and women waited outside the office in which she was sitting in conference with her attorney, John M. Bartlett. She remained in the office three hours. During that time the mob outside grew larger and larger. They shouted and made catcalls. Growing even more impatient, they began to throw snowballs and pieces of ice against the windows and shake their fists at the singer when they could get a glimpse of her through the panes.

Finally it became necessary to call upon the police to disperse the crowd, as it was feared Miss Calla would suffer bodily injury when she came out.

FOR ROY'S EXTRADITION.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 29.—Governor Floyd has signed a request for the extradition from France of Paul E. Roy for the murder of George A. Carkins, his brother-in-law. His will have to be carried on through the regular diplomatic channels at Washington. Even if the cable is used the arrival of the documents must be awaited before the judicial inquiry can be opened in Paris.

County Solicitor Batchelder and Attorney-General Eastman were in conference with the governor. They had with them the report of the medical referee on the autopsy performed on Carkins' body, as well as the affidavits of Glacia Calla, James L. Kelley, her stepfather, and Mrs. Kelley, her mother.

The masquerade dance given by Miss Katheryn Simonds on Saturday afternoon at Assembly Hall to her junior dancing class was most enjoyable and extremely picturesque. The balcony and even the dancing hall were thronged with spectators. The costumes were original, amusing and beautiful, and the tiny dancers executed the various dances with a grace and ease that was marked.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jones delightedly entertained on Wednesday evening at their home on North Arch street with a card party. The game of the evening was progressive pedro. At the close of a very spirited game the first trophies were awarded Miss Bolzer and Mr. Vanaita, while the second was received by Miss Palmer and Mr. Bowman. An elaborate luncheon was served complete in all the appointments.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ridenbaugh, two and a half miles north of Hanover was the scene of a delightful social gathering Tuesday evening, February 25. As Mr. Ridenbaugh and family will soon remove to their farm near Black Run, the neighbors decided to spend a social evening with them. Mr. Ridenbaugh, returning from a trip to the farm, found the house filled with a merry party of self-invited guests. Mrs. Ridenbaugh and Roy having graciously surrendered to the invaders earlier in the evening. It may look as though the railroads had given up the idea of reducing wages in consequence of the President's letter. Such an impression might be very favorable to the political prospects of the administration, but it is not likely to be correct. It was, of course, certain that the men would resist the reduction, and there was danger of strikes that would disarrange business. The probability is that the railroad companies realized that the easiest way of economizing would be to reduce their forces, and the men who get no wages at all until business again becomes normal can give full credit to the cause of their emancipation from work and also from wages.

AN ELECTION PRIMER

Pertinent Points About Our Election Machinery For New Voters and Old

THE SOCIALISTIC PARTIES.

Are persons holding Socialistic views represented by a national political party?

They are represented by two parties, the Socialist and the Socialist Labor.

For what does the Socialist party stand?

In its platform for 1904 the party said: "Socialism means that all those things upon which the people in common depend shall by the people in common be owned and administered. It means that the tools of employment shall belong to their creators and users; that all production shall be for the direct use of the producers; that the making of goods for profit shall come to an end; that we shall all be workers together, and that all opportunities shall be open and equal to all men." The Socialist party stands for shorter working hours, higher wages, graduated income and inheritance tax, public ownership of public utilities, complete education of children and their freedom from toil, "and for every gain or advantage for the workers that may be wrested from the capitalist system and that may relieve the suffering and strengthen the hands of labor."

Who was the first Socialist candidate for president?

Eugene V. Debs of Indiana, who in 1904 received 402,283 votes. In 1900 Mr. Debs ran on what was called the Social Democratic ticket, receiving 87,514 votes.

When did the Socialist Labor party first appear in national politics?

In 1892, when Simon Wing was nominated for president, receiving 21,164 votes. The Socialist Labor party has not grown appreciably. In 1899 a large majority of its members seceded, uniting with the Social Democracy founded by Debs and thus forming the straight out Socialist party.

national convention. Congressmen Cousins and Birdsall, both standpatters, have fallen by the wayside, and now announce they will not be candidates for renomination. The "Iowa Idea" that the tariff fosters trusts is evidently coming to the front again.

The New York Sun says the federal officeholders are the linchpin of the Republican party in the south.

Isn't it a fact that there is nothing to the Republican organization there but the "linchpin" and the negro?

The beautiful rocker will be given away Saturday to the person holding the lucky ticket.

The little incident that occurred in Tuscarawas county a few days ago, reminds us that no longer can the middle-aged and old men crow about the way they were punished when they were boys. Today they tack boys' tongues to the backs of chairs, when they do not mind what is said to them.

OHIO WOMEN

Ask Legislature for Privilege of Voting—Many Organizations Represented at Hearing.

Columbus correspondents are a unit in declaring that the joint hearing granted last week in the interests of the bill providing for the submission of a constitutional amendment enfranchising women was one of the best conducted, and that the addresses were among the most logical and dignified heard at the capitol this session.

The Ohio Federation of Labor was represented by Mrs. Lena Clements of Cleveland, the Consumers' League by Mrs. Marie Jenney Howe of Cleveland, the National Council of Women by Mrs. Pauline Steinem of Toledo, the Ladies of the Maccabees, numbering 24,000 in Ohio, by the supreme commander, Mrs. Emma S. Olds of Elyria; the 48,000 members of the State W. C. T. U. by Mrs. V. D. Romans of Cambridge; college women by Dr. Margaret D. Bigelow of Cincinnati; women physicians by Dr. Carrie Chase Davis of Sandusky.

Mrs. Olds called attention to the fact that the Ladies of the Maccabees, numbering 160,000 strong, have officially endorsed woman suffrage.

While Mrs. Steinem stated that not only 160,000, 180,000, $190,000, $220,000, the National Council of Women of the United States, numbering 2,000,000 members, have officially declared for woman suffrage, but also the International Council of Women with its membership of 10,000,000.

Gentlemen—I have been using your Kidney and Liver Pills for some time with great results. They have done me worlds of good. Many thanks to you for I had been troubled for years with my urine. Sometimes would just dribble from me and I would have to get up three or four times every night. Now that is all over; my urine comes as strong as it did when a young man, although I am 56 years old. My wife has just come in with another box of the Derby Kidney Pills; that makes the ninth box I have bought. I can never praise them enough. I tell everybody that is troubled, as I was, about them.

OBITUARY

CHARLES N. SHIRCLIFF.

TESTED AND PROVEN.

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Newark readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

M. B. Melick, 61 W. Church St., Newark, Ohio, says: "I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as I used them for kidney trouble and obtained great benefit. I had a constant dull ache across the small of my back which would change to sharp twinges whenever I stopped or overexerted myself in any way. I also had pains in my hips, sometimes so severe that I was forced to take to my bed. I tried liniments and used numerous remedies but obtained no relief until Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to me and I procured a box at Crayton's drug store. After a short time I found them to be just the remedy my system required as they banished my troubles and I have had no return of them since." (From statement given November 5, 1904.)

CONFIRMED PROOF.

On Nov. 26, 1907, Mr. Melick said:

TELLS READERS HOW TO GET RELIEF FROM INDIGESTION

The Following Tells Why Everything Eaten Will be Promptly Digested and Not Left in Your Stomach to Ferment and Sour.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep a case of Diapepsin in the house handy.

This harmless blessing is prepared in the form of 22-grain Triangles, and are eaten like candy, but they will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and regulate a sour stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why they cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, and prevent at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of Sour undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to the evening. Sunday school 11:30. On Wednesday evening at 7:15 the Men's Missionary Committee will have charge. Messrs. Fred Evans and Sherman Baggs will give addresses. All cordially invited.

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c. tuck find relief from Indigestion with the common every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours turns to acid. Gas and Stomach poison, which patreys the entire digestive tract and intestines and, besides poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach is waiting for you as soon as you decide to get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin.

One Triangle taken after eating will promptly digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood 3,000 grains of food, and is so absolutely harmless and pleasant that no one could realize they were taking such a blessing.

INTERESTING PROGRAM

At Y. M. C. A. Tomorrow—Rev. Jas. Shannon, Aerial Quartette and Auditorium Orchestra.

Few of the Sunday afternoon speakers at the Y. M. C. A. this winter have been more thoroughly enjoyed than the Rev. Jas. A. Shannon, who spoke two weeks ago. Rev. Shannon is a product of Licking county, and moves his early experiences into his address in a most entertaining manner. Tomorrow he will tell "The Story of a Banker." The shop and the laboring man are especially invited to hear this.

The Aerial Quartette will sing.

One of the most popular features of the Sunday afternoon program has been the concerts by the Auditorium orchestra. They will give another beginning at 2:45 p. m. All men welcome.

The Sunday club will discuss "Jesus and the Will of God." Fellowship and strangers lunch at 5:15. All are invited to remain for these.

DRINKING MEN NOT WANTED.

The above sign is now seen in many shops and offices in this city, because drinking men are unreliable.

Competition is too keen and life is too strenuous for an employer to keep men on his payroll whose nerves are unsteady and whose brains are not clear.

Every line of business is beginning to close its doors to drinking men.

Drunkenness is a disease and like most diseases, has its remedy. Orrine is the reliable treatment and is sold under a positive guarantee to effect a cure or your money will be refunded. Orrine is in two forms; No. 1 which can be used without the patient's knowledge in tea, coffee or food; and No. 2 for those who wish to be cured.

The guarantee applies to both forms. Mailed in plain, sealed package on receipt of $1.00. Write for free booklets, mailed in plain envelope.

NICKELODEON PROPRIETORS

WILL COMPLY WITH WISHES OF NEIGHBORS AND WILL NOT USE GRAPHOPHONE.

New Picture Show On West Main Street Will be Opened Wednesday—Attractive Place.

No phonographs for Attorney S. L. James, indeed, no.

"The charming voice of Melba or Caruso, wailing out the beauties of the tenderest 'Ave Maria,' or the dramatic work of the greatest music master, will be greeted with no more appreciation than Creator's band rendering a Wagnerian cyclone, if that graphophone, or phonograph gets busy in the new nickelodeon that is about ready for business on West Main street. For, whether Josh Weatherby speaks, or Schumann-Heink warbles, the machinery is intolerable,"—says Attorney James and his followers.

The nickelodeon is being built in the room recently vacated by Miller's grocery, and is under the management of John and Samuel Gallaher, and Eddie Harris, all local glassblowers. A fancy front is being put in the room and all is in readiness—but the phonograph. It was said that it would come later, but with the announcement of its coming, came the warning of its going. The attorney said that the squeak, squawk, and squall of a phonograph is so irritating to the most stolidly constructed nervous system, that is ought not be allowed to interfere with the workings of so delicate an organization as man's constitutional necessity.

Mr. Samuel Gallaher, of the amusement company, was seen Saturday and asked regarding his intentions of running a phonograph in connection with the show. He stated that he had a phonograph and had intended to operate it, but that if its joyful hum was to interfere with the workings of anybody's business, he would set to it that the machine was operated only when the said business was closed for the day.

Mr. Gallaher stated further that his room will be ready for opening about next Wednesday.

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

The Page rank will be conferred by Roland Lodge, No. 303.

A regular convention of the U. R. K. of P. was held on Wednesday evening of last week. Another drill preparatory to inspection was held. Several new petitions have been received and the rank is getting along in splendid shape. Captain A. J. Crilly of Newark was present on the evening of February 26, and received the company. The rank has in view the annual inspection of the First regiment of which this company is a part, and which will probably be held in Columbus before long, and it is the desire to fall in line with a large company of well drilled men—Johnstown Independent.

Fully 80 or more Knights of Pythias were present at White Cross Lodge on Thursday night of last week and witnessed the excellent work by the team in conferring the Knight rank on two candidates. Ray Pratt and Wm. Lewis were given the work which caused their names to be entered upon the lodge roster as members of White Cross Lodge No. 308. It would be quite unfair to the lunch committee not to say anything of the excellent supper served this body of men on this occasion. No one knew, except those in charge what the supper would be but much pleasure was felt and expressed when we sat down to a fine luncheon composed of chicken pie, home made soda biscuits, gravy, coffee, and all the trimmings to make up a good supper. The committee consisted of M. D. Shrader, W. E. McCurdy and Bert Dresback—Johnstown Independent.

Stationary Engineers, held February 16, was a very enthusiastic and enjoyable affair. A new system of educational work had been inaugurated. At each meeting two of the brothers are appointed to provide something for the next meeting, either by delivering a lecture, reading a paper on engineering, or by presenting problems and questions. On this occasion Brothers J. A. McFarland and Wm. Welsh had charge of the work, and they kept the boys very busy for two hours, but all were well pleased, saying it was time well spent.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, March 3, and will be even more interesting than the last. Brothers George Dunn and A. L. Swank will have charge of the educational part, and judging from their mysterious actions, they intend to give the boys a surprise party.

President W. H. Cocanour will read a paper on "Boiler Explosion: Its Cause and Effect, and the Prevention." Brother Cocanour has spent considerable time, and taken great care in the preparation of this paper, and every engineer in the city should hear it.

Order Railway Clerks.

The local Order of Railway Clerks hold regular meetings on the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Modern Woodmen.

Cedar Camp, No. 1727. Modern Woodmen of America, met in regular session on Monday night with all officers and 35 of the members present. Three applications for membership were received, balloted upon and elected to membership. A letter was received from Head Consul A. R. Talbot stating that at the February session of the executive council it was found that Cedar Camp No. 4727 had the largest membership of any camp in the state of Ohio as shown by the pass report for the month of December, and therefore is entitled to retain the State Prize Banner for the year 1908. Neighbor N. C. Sherburne state deputy, representing the executive council, in a very pleasing manner presented Cedar Camp with the state banner at the last meeting of the camp. On January 1, 1908, Cedar Camp, by hard work, secured the state banner, which was held by Buckeye Camp, No. 3224 of Zanesville, Ohio, and has held the prize banner for the sixth consecutive year, and the Forerster team of Cedar Camp has taken the prize state banner to two head camps, and will take it to the next head camp, which will be held at Peoria, Ill., this coming June. The membership of Cedar Camp should feel proud of the fact that it has the name of being the largest camp in the state of Ohio. The committee on uniforms for the Forerster team reported at the last meeting and were instructed to procure new uniforms for the team. At the meeting to be held on the 3rd of March, the officers and team of Buckeye Camp of Zanesville, O., will visit Cedar Camp and put on the work and a good attendance of the members is desired. On that night refreshments will be served and all neighbors are cordially invited to be present. Neighbors O. P. Williams and C. M. Provin were reported as being sick and the neighbors are requested to call upon these neighbors. Come to the next meeting of the camp, and we will show you a good time.

With the New Rules Are the Baseball Bags of Newark—Sacrifice Rule a Good One.

As a general thing the fans of Newark are pleased with the two new rulings of the National rules committee that is meeting in New York. The rule that will prevent the pitchers from soiling the ball is a good one, as much time is lost every game by the twirlers taking the horseshoes and rubbing them in their hands and in the dirt before they are put in play.

The rule that gives a batter credit with a sacrifice hit when he knocks a long fly that will score a runner is also looked on with favor by the bugs. Some other rules that were submitted never came up for discussion at all, and will have to lay on the shelf until the next February meeting of the committee.

WINTERS

Sticks His Name on a 1908 Molder Contract Today—Everybody Is Glad He's Cinched.

Scotty Winters got an inside tip from Henry Lucas the other day that before long the blue birds would be sitting up on top of the grand stand and singing to be four of a kind, so Scotty rolled up his sleeves, thought for a moment, and then splashed his signature on a 1908 contract of the Newark ball club.

Scotty intended to sign with Newark all the time, and when his contract was received he just laid it away carefully, and then almost forgot about it. He is popular with Newark fandom and many the game he has saved with a whip to second or a fly caught behind the bat. Several times he has made the twirler that faced him look sick by rapping out a nice bingle just when it would do the most good.

Yes, the fans are glad he is to play, Scotty is glad too, so is Manager Bob and the rest of the directors of base ball in Moldertown.

PLEASED

With the New Rules Are the Baseball Bags of Newark—Sacrifice Rule a Good One.

As a general thing the fans of Newark are pleased with the two new rulings of the National rules committee that is meeting in New York. The rule that will prevent the pitchers from soiling the ball is a good one, as much time is lost every game by the twirlers taking the horseshoes and rubbing them in their hands and in the dirt before they are put in play.

The rule that gives a batter credit with a sacrifice hit when he knocks a long fly that will score a runner is also looked on with favor by the bugs. Some other rules that were submitted never came up for discussion at all, and will have to lay on the shelf until the next February meeting of the committee.

MAY RUE THE DAY.

Wonder if the eastern towns in the O. P. league are sore because they cut away from the four western clubs? They are having trouble lining up suitable franchises and may soon rule the day they cut away from such paying propositions as Newark and other clubs.—Columbus Dispatch.

THE FAN MILL.

The Eric club of the Interstate league has notified the Cleveland management that Catcher Wilson, recently signed by the Napoileons is the property of the Interstate league.

Infelder Moriarity is keeping Manager Griffith guessing. He has not yet signed for 1908, and reports have it that he will remain in California and play outlaw ball.

Mansfield is making a strong bid for the services of Catcher George Fox of Lancaster.

Mansfield announces the release of the veteran Mike Lawrence.

The salary limit of $1900 in the O. P. league is going to be pretty strictly lived up to the coming season. This may be doubted by many, but it's the truth according to the sport writers of the league.

Manager "Wix" Sank of the Piqua team of the Indiana-Ohio league, says that Piqua is to be the farm of the Columbus team this season. Where Wix got his information is unknown.

George Davis expects to play second base for the White Sox.

It is reported that Manager McAlister is seeking in the interests of harmony (and economy?) to trade Shortstop Bobby Wallace for either Ellerfield or Chase of New York. Wallace objects to a cut in his $6,500 salary.

Be Sure

Do not trust too much to your own judgment in medical matters. Consult your doctor frequently. He knows best.

Hard colds, hard coughs, severe bronchitis, weak throats, weak lungs. We wish you would ask your doctor if he knows of anything better for these troubles than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. We believe it is the best medicine you could possibly take. But ask your doctor, and thus be sure to make no mistake. Lowell, Mass.

GOLDEN WEDDING EVERY LADY IN NEWARK

IS CELEBRATED BY MR. AND MRS. R. J. BRADLEY FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 28.

Spendid Four Course Dinner Served and Celebrators are Presented With Purse of Gold.

All of the nine children and 14 of the 20 grandchildren gathered at the home of Mrs. E. G. Vanatta, 579 Hudson avenue, Friday, to celebrate the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bradley, whose home is at No. 407 North Fourth street. An elaborate four course, six o'clock dinner was served and a day of general enjoyment marked the Golden anniversary of the wedding of this well-known couple of Newark residents.

The Vanatta home was decorated in the appropriate colors, yellow and white, yellow jonquils being the favored flowers.

The children present, most of them accompanied by their wives and husbands, were: C. E. Bradley of Greenville, O., Walter G. Bradley of Carey, O., Lester N. H. B., J. R., and C. M. Bradley, Mrs. David Cool, Miss Lillian Bradley, and Mrs. E. G. Vanatta the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bradley were married on February 28, 1858. Mr. Bradley was in the grocery business in Newark for several years, having retired but about 12 years ago. He was born in Genesee county, New York, November 29, 1832. Mrs. Bradley was formerly Miss Amanda Gross. She was born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, August 14, 1837. After their marriage, the couple made their home at Forest, O., later removing to Whitehouse, Lucas county, O., from where they came to Newark in 1875.

Both enjoy excellent health and bid fair to be able to celebrate many more pleasant anniversaries.

A number of beautiful presents were received by the bride and groom, including a purse of gold for each.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND YARD STICKS USED HERE ANNUALLY

"Mister, please give me a yard stick?" said a little boy who poked his head through the front door of a West Main street hardware store Saturday.

"Certainly; here's one, my lad," was the answer as the clerk handed the child a three foot yellow stick, bearing the firm's advertisement.

"It's astonishing the number of those yard sticks handed out in Newark stores," remarked the clerk. "A traveling man who sells advertising novelties told me the other day that Newark merchants buy 15,000 of them every year. The dry goods, hardware, lumber and paper dealers are the principal buyers. How they dispose of so many every year and what becomes of all of them is a mystery to me, but they do it, nevertheless."

YOUR LUNGS

ARE THEY WEAK OR PAINFUL?

Do you spit yellow and black mucus? Do you continually coughing and hawking? Do you have night sweats? Do your lungs ever bleed? Have you pain in chest and sides? Do you have pains under your shoulder blades?

THESE ARE REGARDED SYMPTOMS OF LUNG TROUBLE AND CONSUMPTION

You should not be surprised to hear that the symptoms of these diseases are often so similar that it is difficult to distinguish between them.

UNCLE REMUS STORIES
"THE CREETURS GO TO THE BARBECUE"By JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS
ILLUSTRATED BY J.A. CONDE

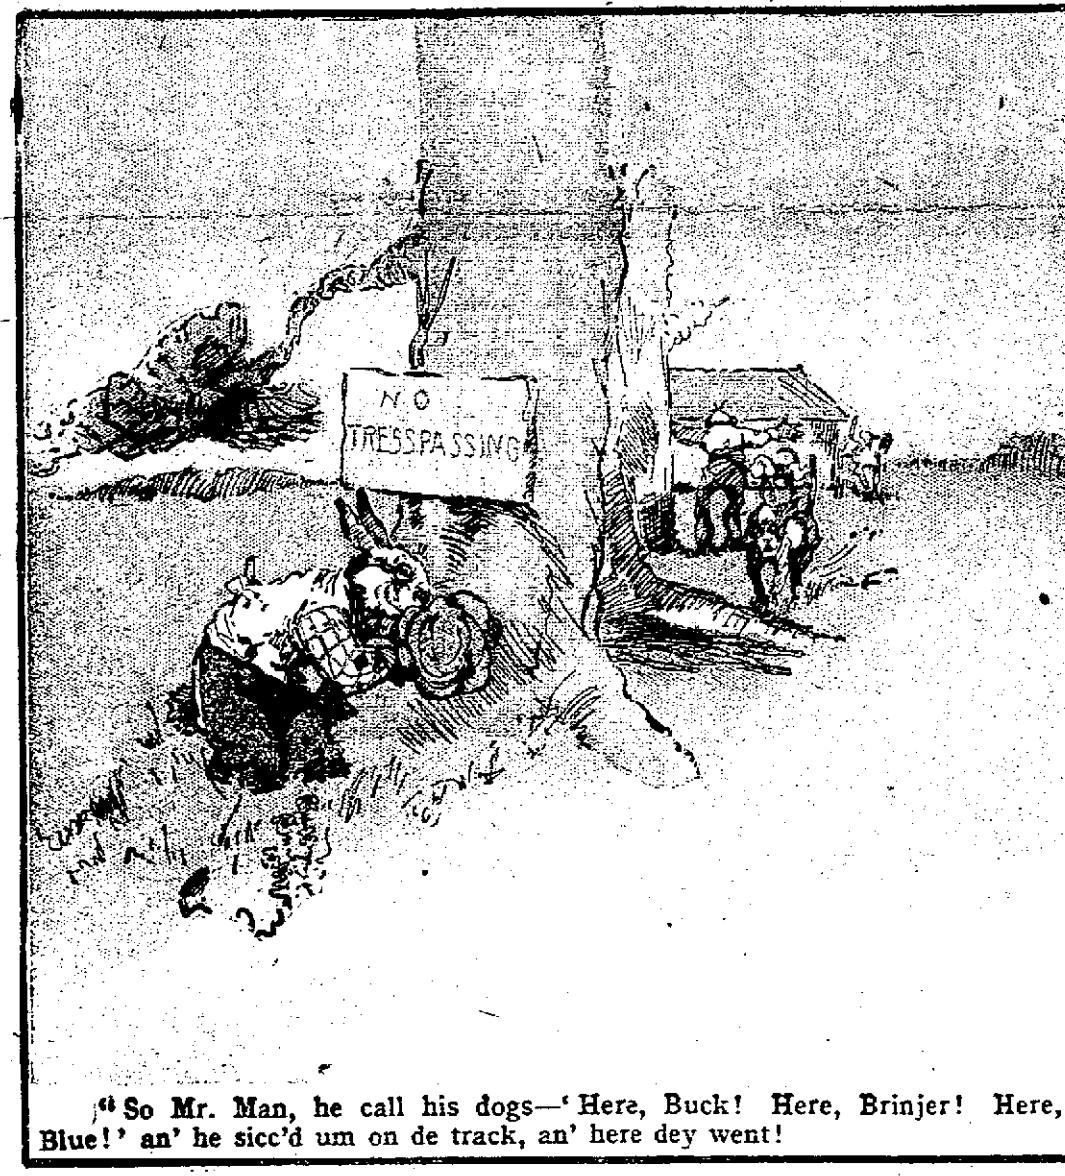

"ONCE 'pon a time," said Uncle Remus to the little boy— "But when was once upon a time?" the child interrupted to ask. The old man smiled. "I speck 'twuz one time er two times, er maybe a time an' a half. You know when Johnny Ashcake 'gun ter bake? Well, 'twuz 'long in dem days. Once 'pon a time," he resumed, "Mr. Man had a gyarden so fine dat all de neighbors come ter see it. Some 'ud look at it over de fence, some 'ud peep thoo de cracks, an' some 'ud come an' look at it by de light er de stars. An' one um um wuz ol' Brer Rabbit, starlight, moonlight, cloud-light, de nightlight wuz de light fer him. When de turn er de mornin' come, he 'uz allers up an' about, an' a-feelin' purty well I thank you, sub!"

"Now, den, you done hear what I say. Dar wuz Mr. Man, yander wuz de gyarden, an' here wuz ol' Brer Rabbit." Uncle Remus made a map of this part of the story by marking in the sand with his walking-cane. "Well, dis bein' de case, what you speck gwine ter happen? Nothin' in de roun' worl' but what been happenin' sence greens an' sparrer-grass wuz planted in de groun'. Dey look fine an' dey tas' fine, an' long to'rs de shank er de mornin', Brer Rabbit 'ud creep thoo de crack er de fence an' nibble at um. He'd take de greens, but leave his tracks, mo' speshually right after a rain. Takin' an' leavin'—it's de way er de worl'."

"Well, one mornin', Mr. Man went out in his truck patch, an' he fin' sump'n missin'—a cabbage here, a turnip dar, an' a mess er beans yander, an' he ax how come dis? He look 'roun', he did, an' he seed Brer Rabbit's tracks what he couldn't take wid 'im. Brer Rabbit had lef' his shoes at home, an' come bar-footed.

"So Mr. Man, he call his dogs—'Here, Buck! Here, Brinjer! Here, Blue!' an' he sicc'd um on de track, an' here dey went!"

"You'd 'a' thunk dey wuz runnin' after forty-lev'm rhinossybosses fum de fass dey made. Brer Rabbit he hear um comin' an' he put out fer home, kinder doublin' 'roun' des like he do dese days."

"When he got ter de p'int whar he kin set down fer ter rest his face an' han's, he tuck a poplar leaf an' 'gun ter fan hisse'f. Den Brer Fox come a-trottin' up. He say, 'Brer Rabbit, what's all dis fuss I hear in de woods? What de name er goodness do it mean?' Brer Rabbit kinder scratch his head an' 'low, 'Why, dey tryin' fer drive me ter de big bobbycue on de creek. Dey all ax me, an' when I 'fuse dey say dey gwine ter make me go any how. Dey aint no fun in bein' ez populus ez what I is, Brer Fox. Ef you want go, des git in ahead er de houn's an' go lickity-split down de big road!"

"Brer Fox roll his little eyes, an' lick his chops what he dribble at de moun', an' put out ter de bobbycue, an' he aint mo' dan made his disappearance, 'fo' here come Brer Wolf, an' when he got de news, off he put."

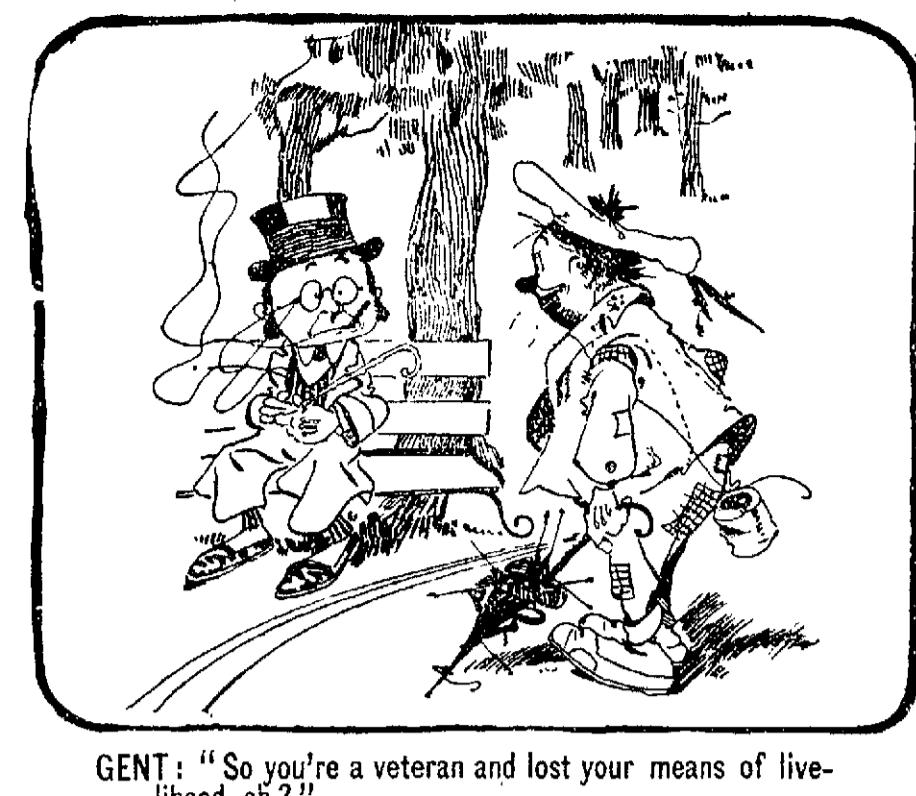

"An' he aint mo'n got out'n sight, 'fo' here come ol' Brer B'ar, an' when he hear talk er de bakin' meat an' de big pan er gravy, he set up on his bebe' legs an' snored. Den off he put, an' he aint got out'n hearin', 'fo' Brer Coon come rackin' up, an' when he got de news, he put out."

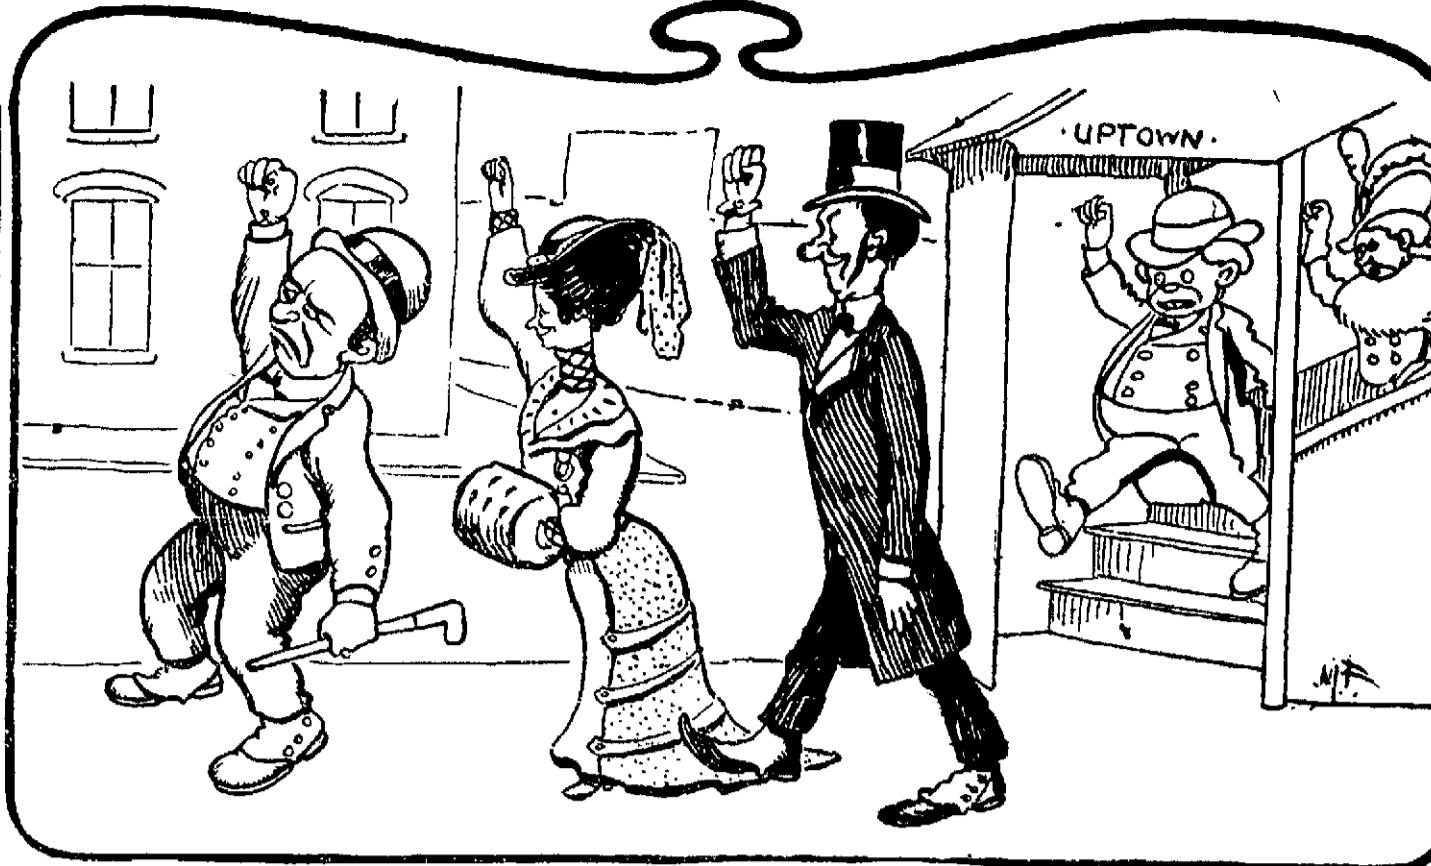

"So dar dey wuz an' what you gwine do 'bout it? It seem like dey all got in front er de dogs, er de dogs got behime um, an' Brer Rabbit sot by de creek-side laughin' an' bittin' at de snake doctors. An' dem po' creeturus had ter go clean past de bobbycue—ef dey wuz any bobbycue, which I don't skacely speck dey wuz. Dat what make me say what I does—when you git a invite ter a bobbycue, you better fin' out when an' whar it's at, an' who runnin' it!"

UNCLE PIKE SELLS HIS SICK CALF TO AN AUTOMOBILIST

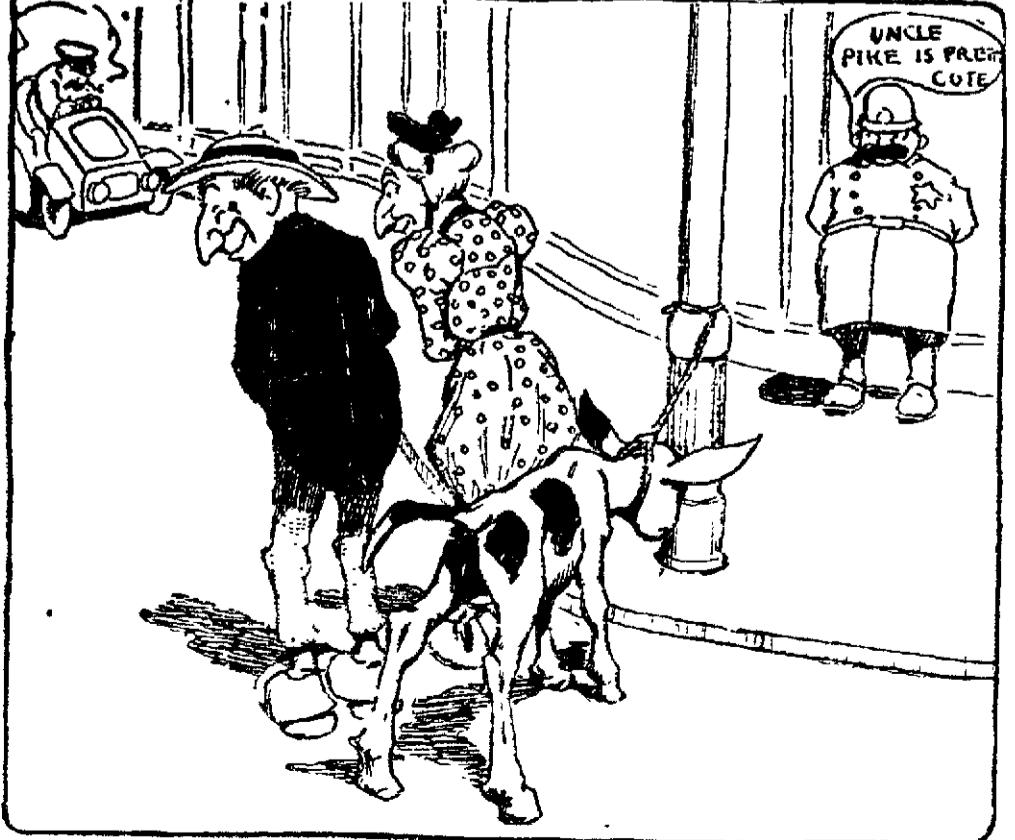

PIKE: "Well, Mandy, this poor little calf won't live another day, so I've fixed things up with my police friend down to the city."

"Take it easy, Mandy, or the critter may die on our hands."

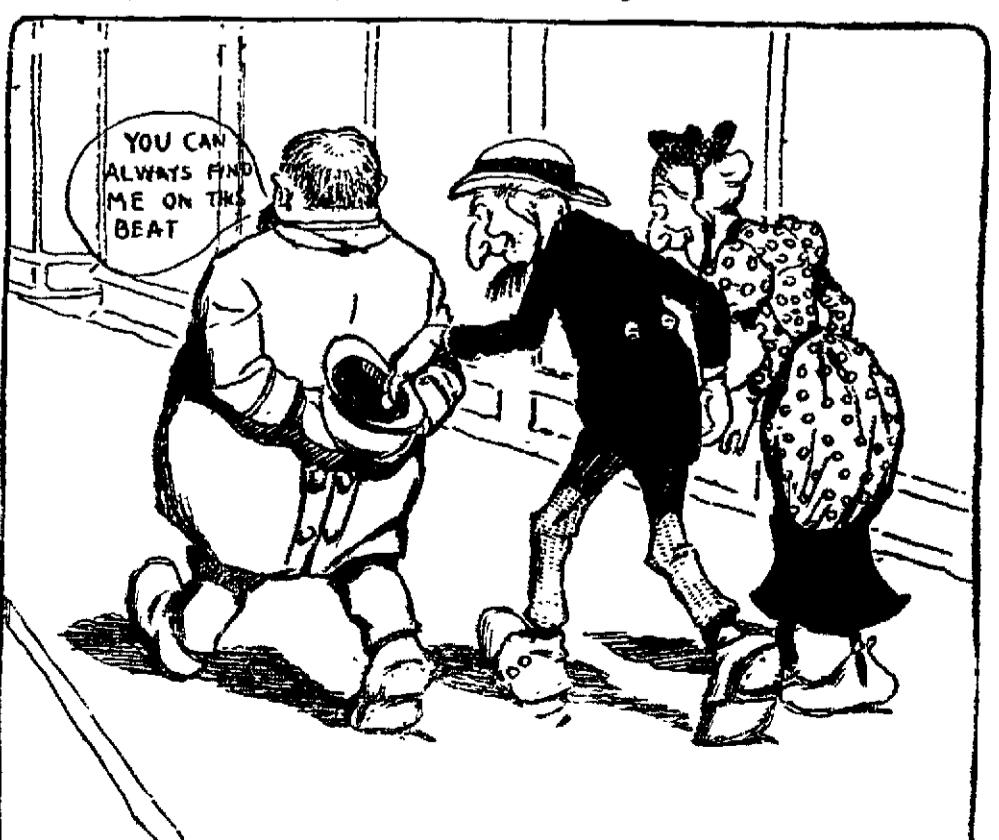

"We'll just tie him here, 'cause this is what they call the automobile corner."

"Now, Mandy, git ready and, when that feller toots his horn, jump."

"You ought to be mighty thankful yer only got a calf ter pay for; yer might have had my Mandy ter settle for, too!"

"Say, Mandy, yer mustn't speak of this matter; cause this is what they calls 'hush money!'"

WHILE simplicity is the main feature of a bridal gown, a certain amount of decoration judiciously placed is always permissible. The model (6128-6129) is graceful and artistic, and the construction of the bodice gives wide scope for originality in the way of trimming. The yoke may be of all-over lace or embroidered chiffon, but some especially designed bit of handwork always gives a touch of elegance to a gown of this character. The waist is built over a dart-fitted lining, which may be cut away under the yoke, or omitted altogether. The skirt is of modish cut and has a wide, graceful sweep and the regulation train. Satin, crepe de Chine, organdy or the exquisite lace robes are all suggested. For 36 inches bust measure 5 yards of 27-inch material will be required for the waist, and 10 yards for the skirt.

Ladies' Waist. No. 6128. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

No. 6126-5961 constitute an attractive going away dress.

The popularity of the broad and drooping shoulder has brought in the kimono sleeve even for the jacket, and here is a short coat having the body and sleeve cut in one. The model would be excellent developed in taffeta for a separate coat. The skirt consists of four gores and is laid in an inverted box-pleat at each seam. The top is given close adjustment, while the lower edge flares in prevailing style. Broadcloth, voile, serge and taffeta are all suitable. For 36 inches bust measure 1 1/2 yards of 44 inch material will be required for the waist, and 3 1/2 yards for the skirt, if the band folds are used.

Ladies' Jacket, with body and sleeve in one. No. 6125. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

An afternoon dress in over-blouse effect for the Easter bride is shown in 996-628. The front of the blouse portion is in fine tucks and attached to a deep yoke. The back has a group of tucks at each side that converge toward the waist line. The short, wide Japanese sleeves fall over the undersleeve of lace. The skirt is circular, with groups of tuck pleats stitched to yoke depth, the extra fulness thus produced giving a wide sweep to the lower edge, which may be in medium sweep, round or short round length. Voile, henrietta, chiffon, broadcloth and silk are suggested. For 36 inches bust measure 1 1/2 yards of 44 inch material will be required for the waist, and 3 1/2 yards for the skirt, if the band folds are used.

Beneath the wide mandarin sleeves are puffed sleeves, caught up in deep pleats and finished by deep cuffs of lace. The under-blouse is gathered to a shaped yoke of lace, and is mounted on a fitted lining, which is cut away under the yoke. The waist line of the full skirt is slightly raised in the back, in Empire style. For 36 inches bust measure 5 yards of 27-inch material will be required for the waist and 9 yards for the skirt.

Personal Daintiness for Dancers

IN making the toilet for a dance, the inexperienced girl must figure on the comparative violence of the exercise in prospect, the heat of the room, and the heavy perfumes used by the woman unversed in modern secrets of the toilet.

The most charming girls at up-to-date dances are those who radiate an atmosphere of physical freshness and crispness. This bars most emphatically the use of heavy odors like heliotrope, rose, or d'Espagne, or their equivalents in sachet powders.

The truly dainty girl depends on neither extracts nor sachets to give her that indescribable air of sweetness and freshness always associated with the debutante but upon her aromatic baths and the daily care of her clothing.

She keeps all her raiment in drawers and boxes thickly scattered not with a heavy sachet powder, but with orris root, lightly scented with lilac or violet sachet, and precious little of either, for it is the orris root odor which is most delicate and elusive. A sheet of cotton wadding powdered with orris root and the preferred delicate sachet may be laid in the bottom of each drawer or box, and it must be renewed at frequent intervals.

If annoyed by an oily skin, the dainty girl always adds a dash of violet toilet ammonia to her bath. And if to an oil skin she adds the general appearance of exhaustion or anaemia, she adds the following invigorating and cleansing mixture to the warm water tub. Dissolve 40 grammes of gelatin in a quart of boiling water. Stir in 50 grammes of sulphate of potassium and 100 grammes of sub-carbonate of soda. She should lie in the hot tub to which this mixture has been added for at least ten minutes.

Some girls do not perspire under ordinary conditions, but after dancing suffer much annoyance from a prickly skin and a distinct odor of perspiration. Such girls should bathe in warm water to which the following aromatic salts have been added: Dried thyme, 200 grammes, dried rosemary, 200 grammes, dried mallow, 200 grammes, dried linden, 200 grammes, rose-petals, 200 grammes, bicarbonate of soda, 250 grammes. Steep the herbs in two gallons of boiling water for half an hour. Pour off, straining through a hair sieve or cloth, and dissolve the soda in the infusion. Add to a bath as hot as you can stand it. This aromatic mixture leaves the skin delightfully smooth and refreshed and the odor, faint but delightful, clings to the person for hours.

In passing, it may be remarked that the up-to-date girl has taken up her great-grandmother's fad of raising fine herbs and drying rose leaves for toilet articles and scenting her lingerie. Rose petals may be gathered and dried throughout the summer, and stored in huge jars for future use, a dainty custom which any girl can follow at small cost.

When the tissues are relaxed from careless washing or the skin on shoulders and arms is flabby and coarse, try this vinegar tonic in your bath: Oil of bergamot, 12 grammes; oil of citron, 10 grammes, tincture of henzoin, 12 grammes; extract of lavender, 30 grammes, pure white vinegar, 1% parts. Mix and let the infusion stand ten days. Dilute with four times the quantity of freshly boiled, distilled or rose water. Warm as much as you need to fill your basin and sponge the face and body freely, allowing the water to trickle into a foot bath, coarse towel or bath mat. Use anti-septic gauze or old soft linen for sponging, never a sponge which holds and breeds germs.

For the girl who is annoyed by excessive perspiration when dancing, the following powder, rubbed well over the body before dressing, may prove helpful: Farina starch, 50 grammes, powdered ecopodium, 20 grammes; salic or boric acid, 10 grammes, essence of violet, 20 grammes. Sift through bolting cloth.

Heavy powdering of the arms is a trick which every girl should avoid. This leaves its trail on the arms of every partner. If the arms are stained, try lemon juice on the disfiguring spots. If any whitener is to be used at all, use one with a liquid foundation, as follows:

Pare cake of zinc, 1 ounce, glycerine, 1 dram, rosewater, 4 ounces, essence of rose, 15 drops.

Sift the zinc, dissolving it in just enough of the rosewater to cover it, then add the glycerine, next the remainder of the rosewater.

Shake well and apply with antiseptic gauze, rub until thoroughly dried into the pores or it will be streaked and leave as many tell-tale marks as the dust.

Every girl should carry in the dance a tiny vanity box or powder rag in a tiny silk bag, which she can tuck into the ruffles of her bodice. A touch of good face powder will reduce the shine on the nose and forehead, and the faint perfume of an imported or home-made powder will be refreshing, but the promiscuous use of a powder puff provided in the public or private dressing room is to be decried in this age of personal daintiness.

Orange Ice: Take the juice of six large oranges, juice of one lemon and one quart of water, one pound of powdered sugar and half a cup of rich cream. Add all together, strain and freeze as you would ice cream. Before freezing this ice, taste of the liquid, and if the flavor of orange is not sufficiently strong add a tablespoon of extract of orange.

Dainty Trifles for the Dancing Girl

RESSING the neck is always a proprie of the dance-loving girl, whatever her physique. Of course the plump girl has rather the best of it in the game of wearing decollete gowns, but Dame Fashion is really very kind to the girl with the scrawny neck this season.

Time was when this girl felt she could not wear a low cut gown on account of the bones in her throat, or because her neck was so long that the decollete bodice was most unbecoming to her. To-day, the thin girl has her gown cut quite as low as those of her stout sister then plans a means of hiding the prominent bones.

The lavaliere, or fancy necklace, is perhaps the most popular. To successfully hide the bones in the neck, these necklaces should fit rather tightly about the throat. If the one you have is too large and drops down too low, take it to an small jeweler your town and he can shorten it an inch.

The girl whose throat is very high and who has a long chin should wear a dog collar in any of the semi-precious stones with her evening gowns. Imitation coral dog collars are exceedingly becoming to the dark girl, and look well with almost any evening colors except reds and greens. Imitation pearl and rhinestones are also made up in this piece of jewelry, and are not very expensive.

If your jewel box does not offer such a trinket, then select a piece of black velvet about an inch in width and the about your neck. This is a very becoming fashion, and one greatly used since the introduction of the Dutch neck gowns.

There are so very few exceptions to where your feet are more exposed to view and criticism than at a dance, that I might say that they do not exist. Elderly women who are dressed in black and do not expect to dance, might wear black gloves. Girls in mourning wear them with all black gowns, but the girl who is in mourning has no place at a dance. If her spirits are gay enough to allow her to go to a dance, then let her wear all white.

The newest fashions in fans are merely a repetition of those during the past two years. They are medium in size and most of them spangled on gauze with ivory, pearl or bone sticks.

An effort was made to introduce feather fans again. But they were too expensive and too heavy to be of general use. They are seen only on rare occasions in the hands of dowers.

The young girl who goes to a dance and expects to whirl around the room most of the evening, will do well to buy an inexpensive Japanese fan in pale colorings. Such a fan will be of real benefit to her, while the fancy spangled gauze affair is really more ornamental than practical.

A dainty scarf is almost a necessity at a dance. It is needed throughout the evening when a girl rests after a heated waltz. It is well to take a look over your grandmother's and your mother's old library, and see if you can not resurrect an old lace scarf. Those who succeed will be doubly fortunate, for old laces are worth their weight in gold this season, as is any piece of antique jewelry.

Let me also suggest that while you are looking for the old lace scarf, keep your eye open for any piece of jewelry that has been put away long ago and discarded as being "too old-fashioned." Dangling ear-rings have returned, and to a certain type of girl they are most becoming. Old-fashioned brooches of coral, cameos and jade are today the most approved and popular type of jewelry. Up-to-date jewelers are turning out copies of these antiques in great quantities, but none of the modern workmanship can compare with that of fifty years ago, and the young girl who can display some genuine pieces of antique jewelry is fortunate indeed.

I saw a girl at the opera the other night dressed in a simple pink chiffon gown, almost void of trimming. She wore dangling ear-rings of plain gold drops, and about her neck was strung on a narrow piece of black velvet ribbon a huge gold locket. It bore the ear marks of a fashion in jewelry seen a half century ago. The girl who wore these bits of antique finery was not long ago an article was devoted exclusively to such scarfs, but I might repeat that those made of dotted net, chiffon and lace are most suitable for a light throw-over at a dance.

NINE KILLED IN EXPLOSION IN MINE SHAFT

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 31.—Nine miners met sudden death in the New River colliery, known to miners as the Lower Boone mine, 45 miles from here, near Hawks Nest, Thursday afternoon, in an explosion that partly wrecked the mine. It is stated that 25 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion and that eight of the nine dead were instantly killed. The others escaped with only slight injuries.

One of the bodies was thrown out of the mine and high into a free several yards distant. This is one of the bodies that has not been identified. The other is badly mutilated.

John Bowles, the superintendent, who was blown down the incline, was the only man not instantly killed. His arms and legs had been blown off and he had other serious injuries. Three physicians worked with him an hour in the hope of saving him before he died.

Chief Mine Inspector Paul dispatched four deputy inspectors to the scene of the disaster to begin a thorough investigation.

The cause of the explosion has not been in any manner definitely ascertained.

All the dynamite and powder in the mine was ignited by the explosion and practically destroyed the shaft.

STATE TO BUILD FISH HATCHERY

Commission Was Much Pleased With Results at Sandusky Hatchery
Last Year.

The state fish and game commission contemplates asking no important changes in the laws governing the commercial fishing in Lake Erie at the present session of the legislature. There was a friendly conference between members of the commission and representatives of the principal fishing companies on the lake, in Columbus, at which the fishery men were informed as to this. The commission may ask an amendment providing for larger meshes in the backs of trap nets, so that fewer small fish may be taken out in these nets.

"We believe that we have the laws on commercial fishing just about as they should be," said State Game and Fish Warden John C. Speaks. "We are more than pleased with the work of the hatchery at Sandusky, and believe that the fact that there was the largest catch of white fish last year that has been reported for several years, is to be credited to this. The revenues from the fish licenses are growing and will be sufficient in a year or two to build another hatchery. Ultimately we hope to see a chain of hatcheries along the lake, and their joint effect will be to immensely increase the supply of food fish."

Those who were present to represent the fisheries were Mr. Post, of the Post company, Sandusky; Mr. Case of the Buckeye, Cleveland; Mr. Kanney, representing the Huron interests; Mr. Driscoll of Vermillion; Mr. Lamb of Toledo; The Lay Brothers of Sandusky; Mr. Bense of Port Clinton, and Mr. Bickley of the islands.

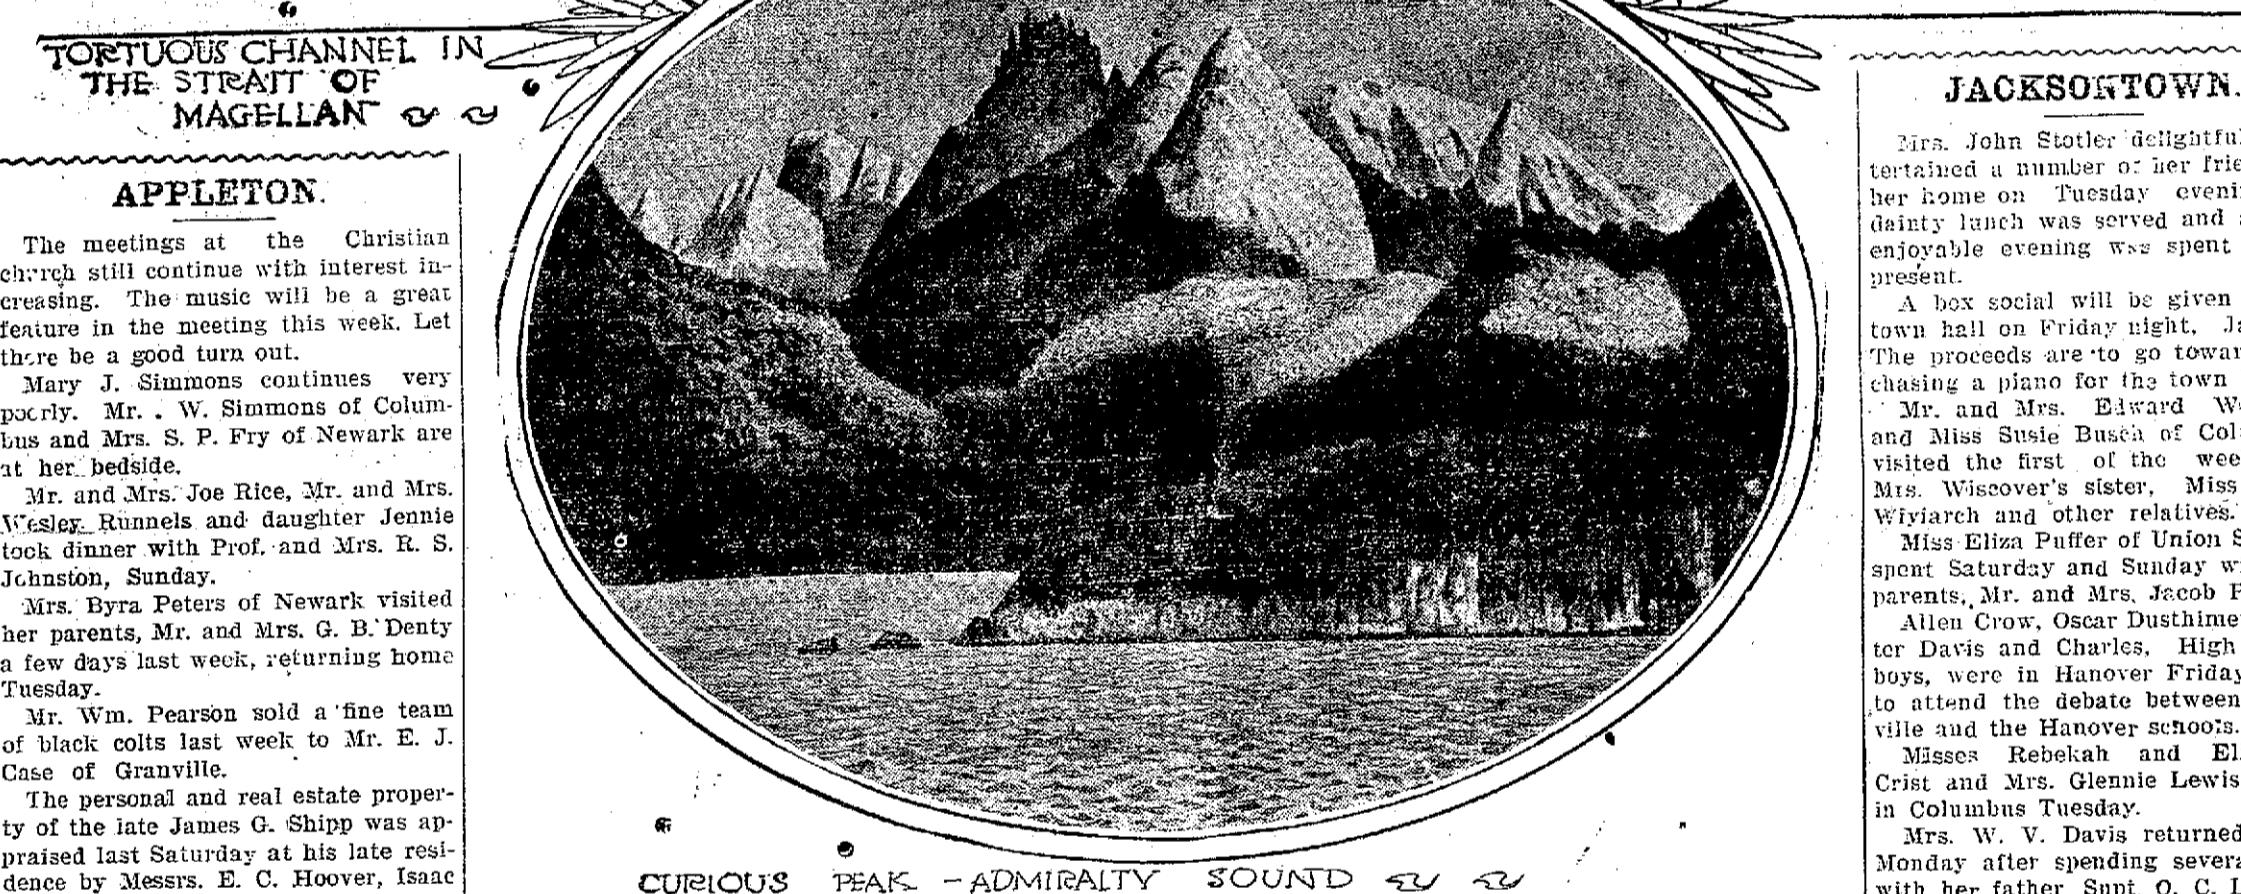

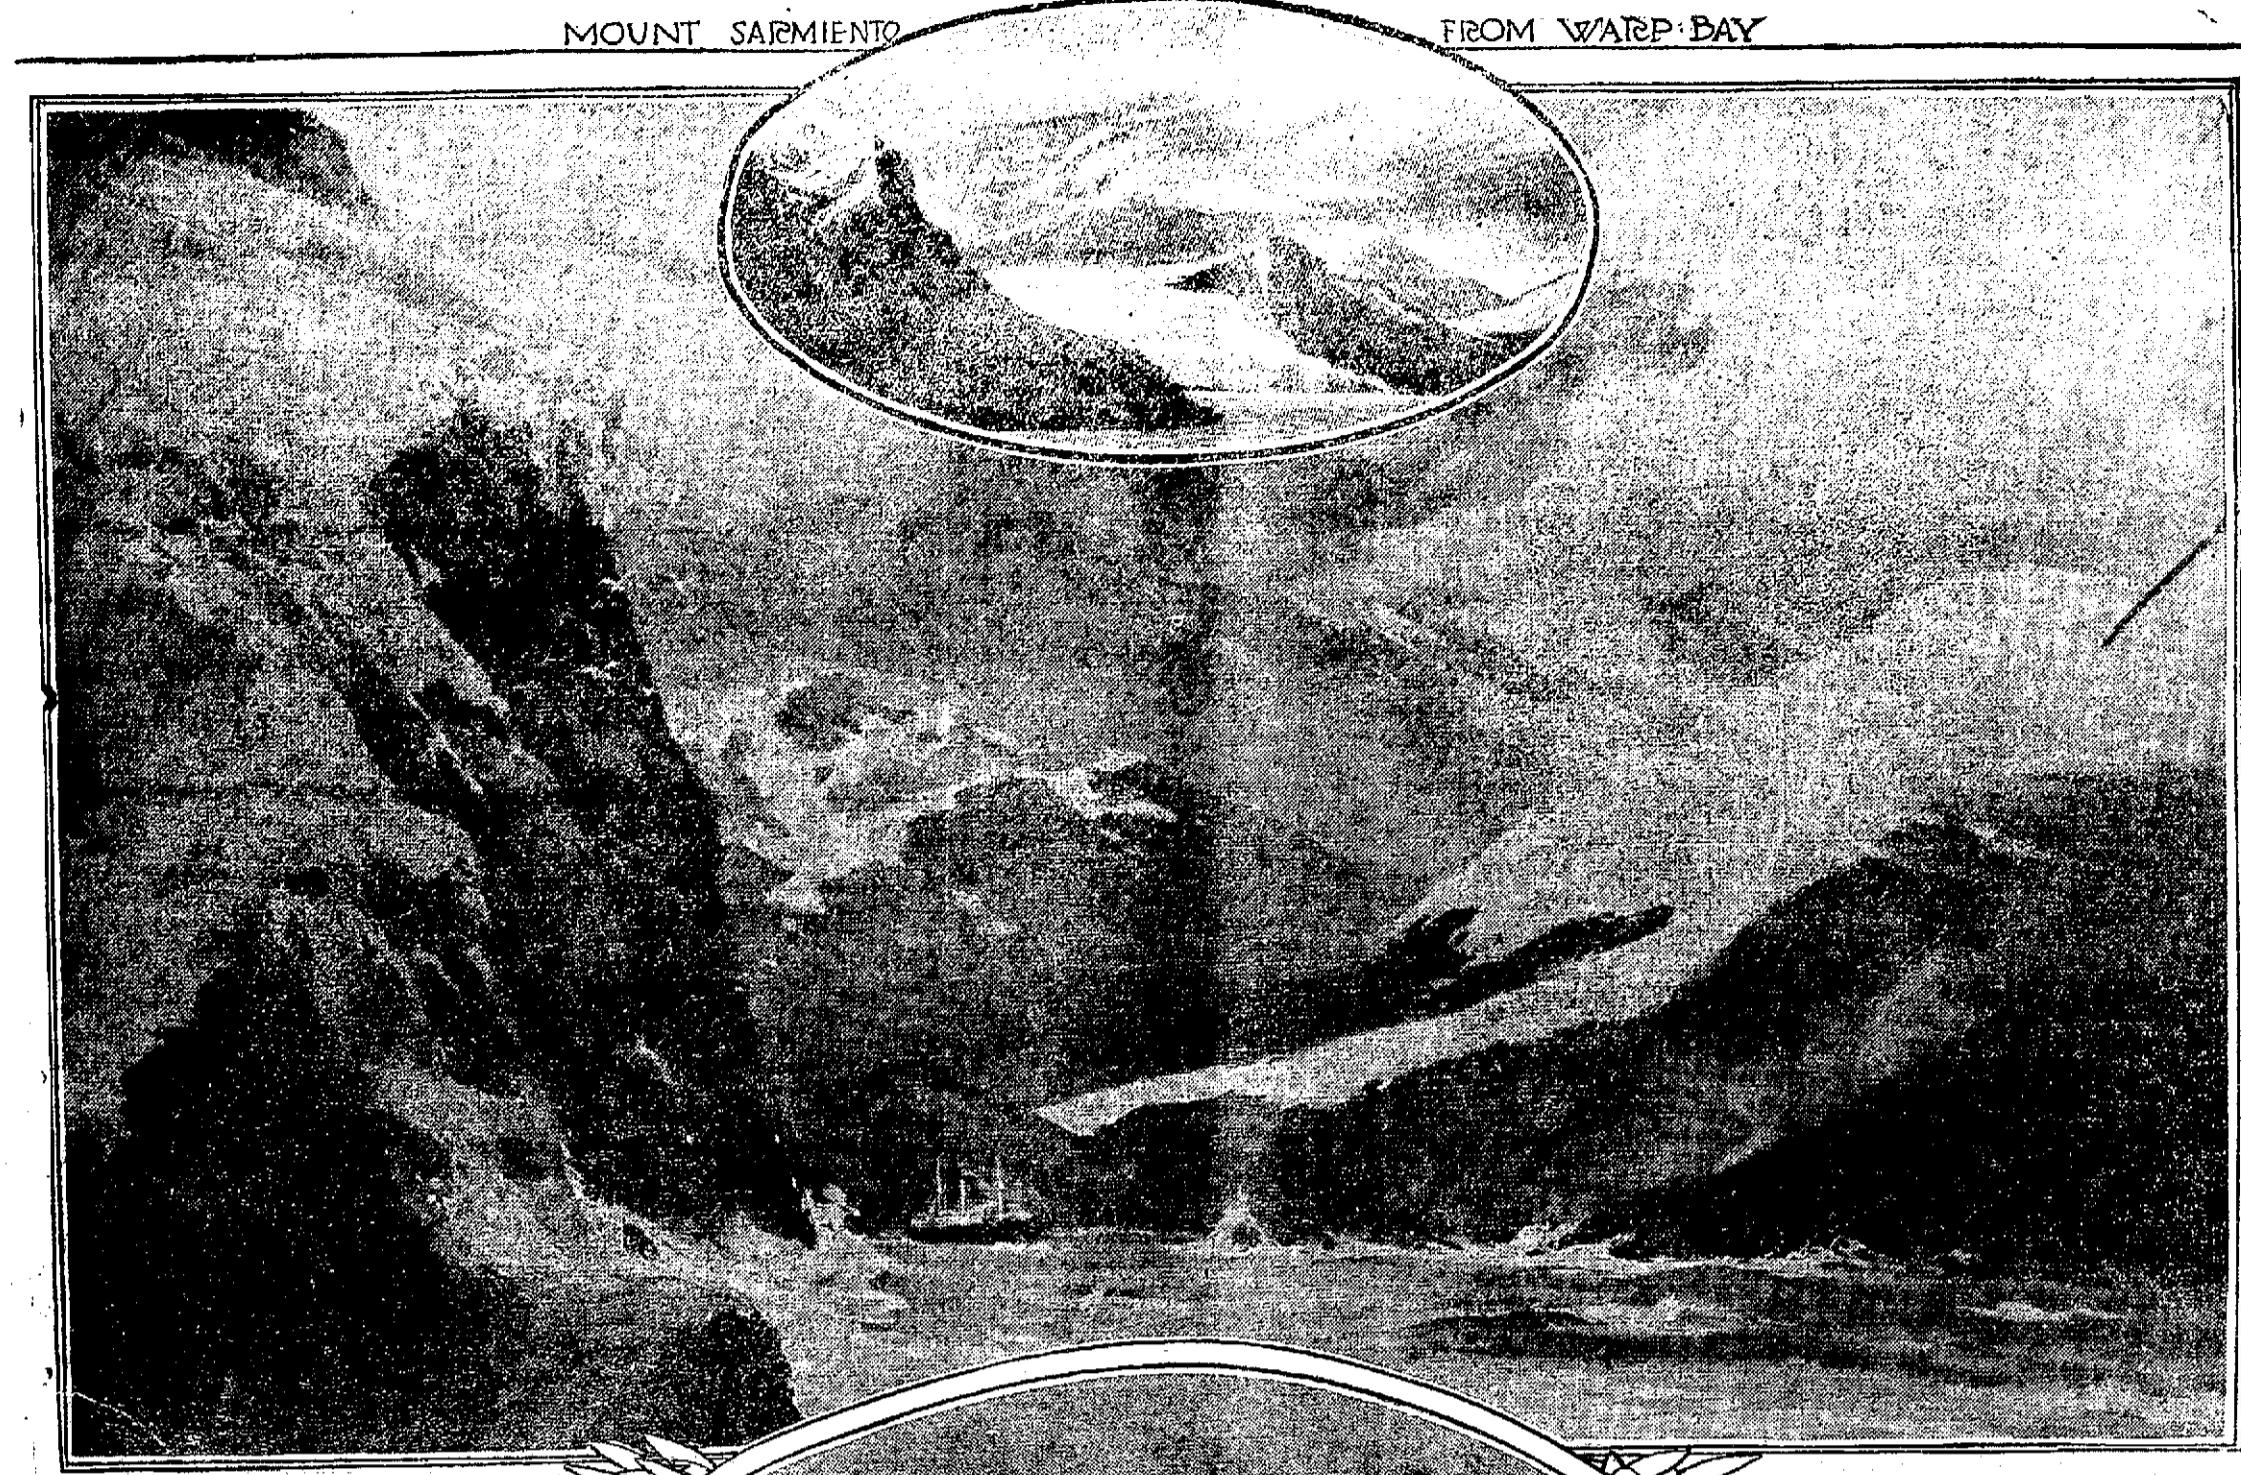

Some of the employes of the fisheries, (they are all strongly organized) are pushing for a longer season so that they can get more work, but the managers of the fisheries do not favor this, and in fact will oppose it if a bill to that effect is introduced. The state commission will certainly oppose an extension of the open season.

The Strait of Magellan is incomparably grander and more inspiring to the imaginative mind than any other similar highway in the world. Its very size commands that homage that we give to nature's masterpiece. It is nearly four hundred miles long and in width from two miles up to 20 or 30. It is more than twice as long as the navigable Hudson river.

In the straits there are peaks of naked rock shooting vertically out of the spinning tide for two or three thousand feet, uncouth, repellent and sublime. Perpetual snow robes their summits, that stand up ragged against the tempests of the south. Tremendous squalls roar across the archipelago through which passes the strait, squalls as white as fog with choking snow—the missiles of the gale that never ends. Veritably a bleak and stalwart land this, at the outpost of the world.

It is through this savage waterway that our 16 battleships are probably threading their way today, the most powerful fleet that ever crossed the ocean wastes of the south. That the season is midsummer in that region means no appreciable meteorological change from midwinter, other than that of a prolonged daylight, instead of the darkness that covers the world there in June, July and August. The men of war are naturally proceeding through the straits in single file, with plenty of sea room between the units of the fleet. Hail, snow and rain squalls almost unceasingly hide the offing on every hand. The compass, the chart and the lead line alone guide the ships through the treacherous cross currents, and there will be few officers and men in the fleet who will not breathe deeply of satisfaction when the open Pacific, stormy though it be, stretches away before them.

PRESIDENT'S SPECIAL MESSAGE

mate actions of labor organizations or under the guise of protecting property rights unlawfully to invade the fundamental rights of the individual. It is futile to concede, as we all do, the right and the necessity of organized effort on the part of wage earners and yet by injunctive process to forbid peaceful action to accomplish the lawful objects for which they are organized and upon which their success depends. The fact that the punishment for the violation of an injunction must, to make the order effective, necessarily be summary and without the intervention of a jury makes its issuance in doubtful cases a dangerous practice and in itself furnishes a reason why the process should be surrounded with safeguards to protect individuals against being enjoined from exercising their proper rights. Reasonable notice should be given the adverse party.

This matter is daily becoming of greater importance, and I cannot too urgently recommend that the congress give careful consideration to the subject. If some way of remedying the abuses is not found, the feeling of indignation against them among large numbers of our citizens will tend to grow so extreme as to produce a revolt against the whole use of the process of injunction. The ultra conservatives who object to curtailing out the abuses will do well to remember that if the popular feeling does become strong many of those upon whom they rely to defend them will be the first to turn against them. Men of property cannot afford to trust to anything save the spirit of justice and fair play, for those very public men who, while it is to their interest, defend all the abuses committed by capital and pose as the champions of conservatism will, at the moment they think their interest changes, take the lead in just such a matter as this and pander to what they esteem popular feeling by endeavoring, for instance, effectively to destroy the power of the courts in matters of injunction and will even seek to render nugatory the power to punish for contempt upon which power the very existence of the orderly administration of justice depends.

Closer Control Over Business.

Not only should there be action on certain laws affecting wage earners; there should also be such action on laws better to secure control over the great business concerns engaged in interstate commerce and especially over the great common carriers. The interstate commerce commission should be empowered to pass upon any rate or practice on its own initiative. Moreover, it should be provided that whenever the commission has reason to believe that a proposed advance in a rate ought not to be made without investigation it should have authority to issue an order prohibiting the advance pending examination by the commission.

I would not be understood as expressing an opinion that any or even a majority of these advances are improper. Many of the rates in this country have been abnormally low. The operating expenses of our railroads, notably the wages paid railroad employees, have greatly increased. These and other causes may in any given case justify an advance in rates, and if so, the advance should be permitted and approved. But there may be and doubtless are cases where this is not true, and our law should be so framed that the government, as the representative of the whole people, can protect the individual against unlawful exactation for the use of these public highways. The interstate commerce commission should be provided with the means to make a physical valuation of any road as to which it deems this valuation necessary. In some form the federal government should exercise supervision over the financial operations of our interstate railroads. In no other way can justice be done between the private owners of those properties and the public which pay their charges. When once an inflated capitalization has gone upon the market and has become fixed in value its existence must be recognized. As a practical matter it is then often absolutely necessary to take account of the thousands of innocent stockholders who have purchased their stock in good faith. The usual result of such inflation is therefore to impose upon the public an unnecessary but everlasting tax, while the innocent purchasers of the stock are also harmed and only a few speculators are benefited. Such wrongs when once accomplished can with difficulty be undone, but they can be prevented with safety and with justice. When combinations of interstate railroads must obtain government action; when it is no longer possible for an interstate railway to issue stock or bonds save in the manner approved by the federal government; when that government makes sure that the proceeds of every stock and bond issue are not the enrichment of some individual or group; when, whenever it becomes unlawful for guidance in the legislative action of the government, the physical value of one of these properties is determined and made known, there will be eliminated from railroad securities that element of uncertainty which tends to them their speculative quality and which has continued to touch the financial stress of the recent past.

Greater Power For Commission.
I think that the federal government must also assume a certain measure of control over the physical operation of railroads in the handling of interstate traffic. The commission now has authority to establish through routes and joint rates. In order to make this provision effective and in order to promote in times of necessity the proper movement of traffic, I think it must also have authority to determine the conditions upon which cars shall be interchanged between different interstate railroads. It is also probable that the commission should have authority in particular instances to determine the schedule upon which perishable commodities shall be moved.

In this connection I desire to repeat my recommendation that railroads be permitted to form traffic associations for the purpose of conferring about and agreeing upon rates, regulations and practices affecting interstate business in which the members of the association are mutually interested. This does not mean that they should be given the right to pool their earnings on their traffic. The law requires that rates shall be so adjusted as not to discriminate between individuals, localities or different species of traffic. Ordinarily rates by all competing lines must be the same. As applied to practical conditions, the railway operations of this country cannot be conducted according to law without what is equivalent to conference and agreement. The articles under which such associations operate should be approved by the commission. All their operations should be open to public inspection and the rates, regulations and practices upon which they agree should be subject to disapproval by the commission.

I urge this last provision with the same earnestness that I do the others. This country provides its railway facilities by private capital. Those facilities will not be adequate unless the capital employed is assured of just treatment and an adequate return. In fixing the charges of our railroads I believe that, considering the interests of the public alone, it is better to allow too liberal rather than too scanty earnings, for otherwise there is grave danger that our railway development may not keep pace with the demand for transportation. But the fundamental idea that these railways are public highways must be recognized, and they must be open to the whole public upon equal terms and upon reasonable terms.

Proposed Changes In Antitrust Law.
In reference to the Sherman antitrust law, I repeat the recommendations made in my message at the opening of the present congress, as well as in my message to the previous congress. The attempt in this law to provide in sweeping terms against all combinations of whatever character, if technically in restraint of trade as such restraint has been defined by the courts, must necessarily be either futile or mischievous and sometimes both. The present law makes some combinations illegal, although they may be useful to the country. On the other hand, as to some huge combinations which are both noxious and illegal, even if the action undertaken against them under the law by the government is successful, the result may be to work but a minimum benefit to the public. Even though the combination be broken up and a small measure of reform thereby produced, the real good aimed at cannot be obtained, for such real good can come only by a thorough and continuing supervision over the acts of the combination in all its parts, so as to prevent stock watering, improper forms of competition and, in short, wrongdoing generally. The law should correct that portion of the Sherman act which prohibits all combinations of the character above described, whether they be reasonable or unreasonable, but this should be done only as part of a general scheme to provide for this effective and thoroughgoing supervision by the national government of all the operations of the big interstate business concerns. Judge Hough of New York in his recent decision in the Harriman case stated that the congress possesses the power to limit the interstate operations of corporations not complying with federal safeguards against the recurrence of obnoxious practices and to license these which afford the public adequate security against methods calculated to diminish solvency and therefore efficiency and economy in interstate transportation. The judge adds that in these matters the power of congress is ample, though as yet not fruitful in results. It is very earnestly to be desired that either along the lines the judge indicates or in some other way equally efficacious the congress may exercise the power which he holds it possesses.

Superficially it may seem that the laws the passage of which I herein again advocate—for I have repeatedly advocated them before—are not connected. But in reality they are connected. Each and every one of these laws, if enacted, would represent part of the campaign against privilege, part of the campaign to make the class of great property holders realize that property has its duties no less than its rights. When the courts guarantee to the employer, as they should, the rights of the employer and to property the rights of property they should no less emphatically make it evident that they will exact from property and employer the duties which should necessarily accompany these rights, and hitherto our laws have failed in precisely this point of enforcing the performance of duty by the man who works for him, by the man of great wealth, especially if he uses that wealth in corporate form, toward the investor, the wage-worker and the general public. The permanent failure of the man of property to fulfill his obligations would ultimately assure the rest of him from the privileges which he is entitled to enjoy only if he recognizes the obligations accompanying them. Those who assume or share the responsibility for this failure are rendering but a poor service to the cause which they believe they chan-

Stock Gambling Reprehended.

I do not know whether it is possible, but, if possible, it is certainly desirable, that in connection with measures to restrain stock watering and overcapitalization there should be measures taken to prevent at least the grosser forms of gambling in securities and commodities, such as making large sales of what men do not possess and "cornering" the market. Legitimate purchases of commodities and of stocks and securities for investment have no connection whatever with purchases of stocks or other securities or commodities on a margin for speculative and gambling purposes. There is no moral difference between gambling at cards or in lotteries or on the race track and gambling in the stock market. One method is just as pernicious to the body politic as the other in kind, and in degree the evil worked is far greater. But it is a far more difficult subject with which to deal. The great bulk of the business transacted on the exchanges is not only legitimate, but is necessary to the working of our modern industrial system, and extreme care would have to be taken not to interfere with this business in doing away with the bucket shop type of operation. We should study both the successes and the failures of foreign legislators who, notably in Germany, have worked along this line, so as not to do anything harmful. Moreover, there is a special difficulty in dealing with this matter by the federal government in a federal republic like ours. But if it is possible to devise a way to deal with it the effort should be made, even if only in a cautious and tentative way.

It would seem that the federal government could at least act by forbidding the use of the mails, telegraph and telephone wires for mere gambling in stocks and futures, just as it does in lottery transactions.

I enclose herewith a statement by the head of the bureau of corporations (appendix 4) in answer to certain statements, which I also enclose, made by and on behalf of the agents of the Standard Oil corporation (appendix 2), and a letter of the attorney general (appendix 3) containing an answer to certain statements, also enclosed, made by the president of the Santa Fe Railway company (appendix 4). The Standard Oil corporation and the railway company have both been found guilty by the courts of criminal misconduct. Both have been sentenced to pay heavy fines, and each has issued and published broadcast these statements, asserting their innocence and denouncing the rights of the state. The state grants all corporate powers to its railroads and other public utility corporations and may not only modify but repeal all charters and charter privileges it confers. It may therefore impose conditions upon their operation at its pleasure. Of course in the doing of these things it should act wisely and with conservatism, protecting all vested rights of property and the interests of the innocent holders of the securities of existing quasi public corporations. Regulation, therefore, upon a wise basis of the operation of these public utilities companies, including the fixing of rates and public charges, upon complaint and subject to court review, should be intrusted to a proper board, as well as the right to regulate the output of stock and the bonded issues of such corporations. If this were done, it would inure to the benefit of the people and the companies, for it would fix the value of such securities and act as a guaranty against their depreciation. Under such a law the holders of existing securities would find them protected, and new securities offered would have the confidence of the people because of the guaranty of the state that they were only issued for extensions or betterments and upon some basis of the cost of such extensions or betterments. It is difficult to suggest any legislation that would give greater confidence to the public and investors than a wise public utility bill, and the more suggestion of its enactment should cause this class of security holders to feel that their holdings were strengthened and that the state was about to aid the managers of its public utility corporations to conserve their corporate property for the public benefit and for the protection of invested capital.

It is this that has come for the strict supervision of these great corporations and the limitation of their stock and bond issues under some proper public official. It will make for conservatism and strengthen the companies doing a legitimate business and eliminate, let us hope, those which are merely speculative in character and organized simply to catch the unsuspecting or credulous investor. Corporations have come in our business world to remain for all time. Corporate methods are the most satisfactory for business purposes in many cases. Every business or enterprise, however incorporated, should be protected and the public made to feel confidence in its corporate organization. Capital invested in corporations must be as free from wrongful attack as that invested by individuals, and the state should do everything to foster and protect invested corporate capital and encourage the public to give confidence in its corporate organization.

Capital invested in corporations must be as free from wrongful attack as that invested by individuals, and the state should do everything to foster and protect invested corporate capital and encourage the public to give confidence in its corporate organization. The extraordinary violence of the assaults upon our policy contained in these speeches, editorials, articles, advertisements and pamphlets and the enormous sums of money spent in these various ways give a fairly accurate measure of the anger and terror which our public actions have caused the corrupt men of vast wealth to feel in the very marrow of their being. The attack is sometimes made openly against us for enforcing the law and sometimes with a certain cunning for not trying to enforce it in some other way than that which ex-company, it was necessary for them to sell at the San Francisco bar polots on the basis of the cost of water transportation from the coast fields. They figured they could only afford to pay us the 25 cents per barrel if by doing this they sold our company a certain amount of fuel oil; otherwise the business covered by the attached papers would have come in by boat from the coast fields.

"I am writing this up completely so that there may be in the papers a history of the reasons why this arrangement was made. I wish you would go ahead and make the adjustment as soon as possible, as the Associated Oil company are very anxious to have the matter closed up. The arrangement was canceled on Nov. 15 at a conference between Mr. Ripley, Mr. Wells, Mr. Porter and myself. Yours truly,

"EDWARD CHAMBERS.

Administration's Course Defended.

The attacks by these great corporations on the administration's actions have been given a wide circulation throughout the country, in the newspapers and otherwise, by those writers and speakers who consciously or unconsciously act as the representatives of predatory wealth—or the wealth accumulated on a giant scale by all forms of iniquity, ranging from the oppression of wage workers to unfair and unwholesome methods of crushing out competition and to defrauding the public by stockjobbing and the manipulation of securities. Certain wealthy men of this stamp whose conduct should be abhorrent to every man of ordinary decent conscience and who commit the hideous wrong of teaching our young men that phenomenal business success must ordinarily be based on dishonesty have during the last few months made it apparent that they have banded together to work for a reaction. Their endeavor is to overthrow and discredit all who honestly administer the law, to prevent any additional legislation which would check and restrain them and to secure, if possible, a freedom from all restraint which will permit every unscrupulous wrongdoer to do what he wishes unchecked, provided he has enough money. The only way to counteract the movement in which these men are engaged is to make clear to the public just what they have done in the past and just what they are seeking to accomplish in the present.

"Just and fair regulation can only be objected to by those misconceiving the rights of the state. to be wealthy is precisely similar to the outcry raised against every effort for cleanliness and decency in city government, because, forsooth, it will "hurt business." The same outcry is made against the department of justice for prosecuting the heads of colossal corporations, that has been made against the men who in San Francisco have prosecuted with impartial severity the wrongdoers among business men, public officials and labor leaders alike. The principle is the same in the two cases. Just as the blackmailer and bribe giver stand on the same evil eminence of infamy, so the man who makes an enormous fortune by corrupting legislatures and municipalities and fleecing his stockholders and the public stands on the same moral level with the creature who fattens on the blood money of the gambling house and the saloon. Moreover, in the last analysis, both kinds of corruption are far more intimately connected than would at first sight appear. The wrongdoing is at bottom the same. Corrupt business and corrupt politics act and react with ever increasing detriment one on the other, the corrupt head of a corporation and the corrupt labor leader are both in the same degree the enemies of honest corporations and honest labor unions; the rebate taker, the franchise trafficker, the manipulator of securities; the purveyor and protector of vice, the blackmailing ward boss, the ballot box stuffer, the demagogue, the mob leader, the hued bully and man killer—all alike work at the same web of corruption, and all alike should be abhorred by honest men.

Justice of Proposed Liability Law.

The "business" which is hurt by the movement for honesty is the kind of business which in the long run it pays the country to have hurt. It is the kind of business which has tended to make the very name "high finance" a term of scandal to which all honest American men of business should join in putting an end. The special plodders for business dishonesty in denouncing the present administration for enforcing the law against the huge and corrupt corporations which have defied the law also denounce it for endeavoring to secure such needed labor legislation, such as a far-reaching law making employers liable for injuries to their employees. It is meet and fit that the apologists for corrupt wealth should opp' e every effort to relieve weak and helpless people from crushing misfortune brought upon them by injury in the business from which they gain a bare livelihood. The burden should be distributed. It is hypocritical baseness to speak of a girl who works in a factory where the dangerous machinery is unprotected as having the "right" freely to contract to expose herself to dangers to life and limb. She has no alternative but to suffer want or else to expose herself to such dangers and when she loses a hand or is otherwise maimed or disfigured for life it is a moral wrong that the whole burden of the risk necessarily incidental to the business should be placed with crushing weight upon her weak shoulders and all who profit by her work escape scot free. This is what opponents of a just employers' liability law advocate, and it is consistent that they should usually also advocate immunity for those most dangerous members of the criminal class, the criminals of great wealth.

Respect Due to Federal Judges.

Our opponents have recently been bitterly criticizing the two judges referred to in the accompanying communications from the Standard Oil company and the Santa Fe railroad for having imposed heavy fines on these two corporations, and yet these same critics of these two judges exhaust themselves in denouncing the most respectful and cautious discussion of the official action of a judge which results in immunity to wealthy and powerful wrongdoers. Most certainly it behoves us all to treat with the utmost respect the high office of judge, and our judges, as a whole, are brave and upright men. Respect for the law must go hand in hand with respect for the judges, and, as a whole, it is true now, as in the past, that the judges stand in character and service above all other men among their fellow servants of the public. There is all the greater need that the few who fail in this great office, who fall below this high standard of integrity, of wisdom, of sympathetic understanding and of courage, should have their eyes opened to the needs of their countrymen. A judge who on the bench either truckles to the mob and shrinks from sternly repressing violence and disorder or bows down before a corporation, who fails to stand up valiantly for the rights of property on the one hand, or on the other, by misuse of the process of injunction or by his attitude toward all measures for the betterment of the conditions of labor, makes the wage-worker feel with bitterness that the courts are hostile to him, or who fails to realize that all public servants in their several stations must strive to stop the abuses of the criminal rich—such a man performs an even worse service to the body politic than the legislator or executive who goes wrong. The judge who does his full duty well stands higher and renders a better service to the people than any other public servant. He is entitled to greater respect, and if he is a true servant of the people, if he is upright, wise and fearless, he will unhesitatingly disregard even the wishes of the people if they conflict with the eternal principles of right as against wrong. He must serve the people, but he must serve his own conscience first. All honor to such a judge, and all honor cannot be rendered him if it is rendered equally to his brethren who fall immeasurably below the high ideals for which he stands. Untruthful criticism is wicked at all times and whoever may be the object, but it is a peculiarly flagrant infidelity when a judge is the object. No man should lightly criticize a judge. No man should, even in his own mind, condemn a judge unless he is sure of the facts. If a judge is assailed for standing against popular folly and, above all, for standing against mob violence, all honorable men should rally instantly to his support. Nevertheless if he clearly fails to do his duty by the public in dealing with law-breaking corporations, law-breaking men of wealth, he must expect to feel the weight of public opinion, and this is but right, for except in extreme cases this is the only way in which he can be reached at all. No servant of the people has a right to expect to be free from just and honest criticism.

Ethical Basis of Reform Movement.

The opponents of the measures we champion single out now one and now another measure for especial attack and speak as if the movement in which we are engaged was purely economic. It has a large economic side, but it is fundamentally an ethical movement. It is not a movement to be completed in one year or two or three years; it is a movement which must be persevered in until the spirit which lies behind it sinks deep into the heart and the conscience of the whole people. It is always important to choose the right means to achieve our purpose, but it is even more important to keep this purpose clearly before us. And this purpose is to secure national honesty in business and in politics. We do not subscribe to the cynical belief that dishonesty and unfair dealing are essential to business success and are to be condoned when the success is moderate and applauded when the success is great. The methods by which the Standard Oil people and those engaged in the other combinations of which I have spoken above have achieved great fortunes can only be justified by the advocacy of a system of morality which would also justify every form of criminality on the part of a labor union and every form of violence, corruption and fraud, from murder to bribery and ballot box stuffing, in politics. We are trying to secure equality of opportunity for all, and the struggle for honesty is the same whether it is made on behalf of one set of men or of another. In the interest of the small settlers and landowners and against the imbibed opposition of wealthy owners of huge wandering flocks of sheep or of corporations desiring to rob the people of coal and timber we strive to put an end to the theft of public land in the west. When we do this and protest against the action of all men, whether in public life or in private life, who either take part in or refuse to try to stop such theft, we are really engaged in the same policy as when we endeavor to put a stop to rebates or to prevent the upgrowth of uncontrolled monopolies. Our effort is simply to enforce the principles of common honesty and common sense. It would indeed be ill for the country should there be any halt in our work.

The laws must in the future be administered as they are now being administered, so that the department of justice may continue to be, what it now is, in very fact the department of justice, where, so far as our ability permits, justice is meted out with an even hand to great and small, rich and poor, weak and strong. Moreover, there should be no delay in supplementing the laws now on the statute books by the enactment of further legislation as outlined in the message I sent to the congress on its assembling. Under the existing laws much, very much, has been actually accomplished during the past six years, and it has been shown by actual experience that they can be enforced against the wealthiest corporation and the richest and most powerful manager or manipulator of that corporation as rigorously and fearlessly as against the humblest offender. Above all, they have been enforced against the very wrongdoers and agents of wrongdoers who have for so many years gone scot free and flouted the laws with impunity, against great law defying corporations of immense wealth which until within the last half dozen years have treated themselves and have expected others to treat them as being beyond and above all possible check from law.

Three Courses Open to Government.

It is especially necessary to secure to the representatives of the national government full power to deal with the great corporations engaged in interstate commerce and, above all, with the great interstate common carriers. The nation will not tolerate an utter lack of control over very wealthy men of enormous power in the industrial and therefore in the social lives of all our people, some of whom have shown themselves cynical and brutally indifferent to the interests of the people, and if the congress does not act with good temper and sensible but resolute thoroughness in cutting out the evils and in providing an effective supervision the result is certain to be action on the part of the separate states, sometimes wise, sometimes ill judged and extreme, sometimes unjust and damaging to the railroads or other corporations, more often ineffective from every standpoint because the federal courts declare it unconstitutional.

We have just passed through two months of acute financial stress. At any such time it is a sad fact that entirely innocent people suffer from no fault of their own, and every one must feel the keenest sympathy for the large body of honest business men, of honest investors, of honest wage-workers, who suffer because involved in a crash for which they are in no way responsible. At such a time there is a natural tendency on the part of many men to feel gloomy and frightened at the outlook, but there is no justification for this feeling. There is no nation so ab-lent it may be prevented from wrongdoing.

State or Federal Regulation?

The second and third courses are to have the regulation undertaken either by the nation or by the states. Of course in any event both the national government and the several state governments must do each its part, and each can do a certain amount that the other cannot do, while the only really satisfactory results must be obtained by the representatives of the national and state governments working heartily together within their respective spheres. But in my judgment thoroughgoing and satisfactory control can in the end only be obtained by the action of the national government, for almost all the corporations of enormous wealth—that is, the corporations which it is especially desirable to control—are engaged in interstate commerce and derive their power and their importance not from that portion of their business which is intrastate, but from the interstate business. It is not easy always to decide just where the line of demarcation between the two kinds of business falls. This line must ultimately be drawn by the federal courts. Much of the effort to secure adequate control of the great corporations by state action has been wise and effective, but much of it has been neither, for when the effort is made to accomplish by the action of the state what can only be accomplished by the action of the nation the result can only be disappointment, and in the end the law will probably be declared unconstitutional. So, likewise in the national arena, we who believe in the measures herein advocated are hampered and not aided by the extremists who advocate action so violent that it would either be useless or else would cause more mischief than it would remedy.

In a recent letter from a learned judge of the supreme court of one of the gulf states the writer speaks as follows:

"In all matters pertaining to interstate commerce the authority of the national government already exists and does not have to be acquired, and the exercise of this existing authority can be in no sense a usurpation or infringement upon the rights of the states. On the contrary, had the federal government given this question more attention in the past and applied a vigorous check to corporate abuses conditions would now be better, because the states would have had fewer real or imaginary grievances and have had less cause not only to attempt the exercise of the authority reserved to the national government, but to act without proper moderation in matters peculiar within their own provinces. The national government has been remiss in the past, but even at this late day it can solve this problem, and the sooner the national authority is exercised the less apt are the states to take action which will represent encroachment upon the national domain. There is a field of operations for both powers and plenty alike for national and state governments to do in order to protect both the people and the public utilities. The line of demarcation between federal and state authority can and should be speedily settled by the federal courts. The fact that the national government has omitted to exercise the authority conferred upon it by the interstate commerce clause of the constitution has made the states restrictive under what they deem corporate abuses and in some cases has probably stimulated them to go too far in the attempt to correct these abuses, with the result that all measures which they passed, good or bad, have been held up by the federal courts. The necessary equitable and uniform regulation cannot be obtained by the separate action of the states, but only by the affirmative action of the national government."

Storm Signals For Malefactors.

This is an appeal by a high state judge alarmed, as good citizens should be alarmed, by conflicts over the matter of jurisdiction and by the radical action advocated by honest people smarting from a sense of injury received from corporations, which in injury the federal courts forbid the states to try to remedy, while the federal government nevertheless refrains from itself taking adequate measures to provide a remedy. It cannot too strongly be insisted that the defenders and apologists of the great corporations who have sought in the past and still seek to prevent adequate action by the federal government to control these great corporations are not only proving false to the people, but are laying up a day of wrath for the great corporations themselves. The nation will not tolerate an utter lack of control over very wealthy men of enormous power in the industrial and therefore in the social lives of all our people, some of whom have shown themselves cynical and brutally indifferent to the interests of the people, and if the congress does not act with good temper and sensible but resolute thoroughness in cutting out the evils and in providing an effective supervision the result is certain to be action on the part of the separate states, sometimes wise, sometimes ill judged and extreme, sometimes unjust and damaging to the railroads or other corporations, more often ineffective from every standpoint because the federal courts declare it unconstitutional.

HOPES OF PROGRESSIVES IN CHINA CENTER ABOUT A FORMER YALE MAN.

LIANG TUNG-YEN (Yale '82)

(Advocate Correspondence)

Pekin, Dec. 20.—Around the personality and influence of a former Yale student the hopes of the progressives of China are just now centered. The sincere advocates of practical reform in the Empire believe that the success of the present administration at Pekin, which has brought into first place the two long time rivals, Chang Chi-tung and Yuan Shih-kai, must depend in a great measure upon one man, and that man is Liang Tung Yen of the class of '82 at Yale.

Of the younger element of Chinese officialdom—comprised, as it is, largely of men who were among the first to be sent by the United States for their education—which is gradually but certainly coming into control of the affairs of China, His Excellency Liang Tung Yen now holds the most important port in the national government. As vice president of the Wai-wu-pu (Foreign Office) he is largely the controlling influence in that important body.

Mr. Liang was first selected to succeed Sir Chentung as Minister at sority sure of ultimate success as ours. Of course we shall succeed. Ours is a nation of masterful energy, with a continent for its domain, and it feels within its veins the thrill which comes to those who know that they possess the future. We are not cast down by the fear of failure. We are upheld by the confident hope of ultimate triumph. The wrongs that exist are to be corrected, but they in no way justify doubt as to the final outcome, doubt as to the great material prosperity of the future or of the lofty spiritual life which is to be built upon that prosperity as a foundation. No misdeeds done in the present must be permitted to shroud from our eyes the glorious future of the nation, but because of this very fact it behoves us never to swerve from our resolute purpose to cut out wrongdoing and uphold what is right.

The one man in a responsible position who enjoys the complete confi-ence of both Chang and Yuan is Liang Tung-yen.

Washington, but, much to his personal disappointment, Yuan Shih-kai insisted that the greater need for his services was in his present post at Pekin.

It is not, however, his official position that makes Mr. Liang's presence at Pekin so valuable as it is his personality and the peculiar relationship he bears to the heads of the two great political forces constantly striving for supreme control with the imperial government.

The coincident calling of the two great Chinese viceroys Chang and Yuan into the Supreme council, shows two rival political camps just as distinct as would follow from some such experiment as given a Mark Hanna and a William J. Bryan positions of equal power in a cabinet at Washington—or a Taft and a Foraker.

Yuan Shih-kai and Chang Chi-tung are both able, patriotic men, both Chinese, in contradiction to the Manchus. Both are doubtless sincere in their desire to do what is right for China, but they represent two distinct schools of thought—Chang the conservative and Yuan the progressive.

But although Liang Tung Yen did not remain to graduate with his class he was not forgotten by some of his classmates whose respect and affection he had won. True, he did not "make a fraternity" so far as available records show, but his classmates resident here say that he was a most general and companionable young man.

He was exceptionally apt as a student of languages and made remarkable progress in English.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 31.—Liang Tung Yen, Chinese diplomat and administrative official, was for some what more than two years a student in Yale college. He entered with the class of 1882 in the autumn of 1878, being one of about forty Chinese youths who were sent to the Eastern colleges and academies, especially

Yale, by the Chinese government.

He was one of those summarily recalled in the middle of his junior year because of a peremptory change in policy in the home government, which took sudden fear that the students might return home with revolutionary ideas.

GRANVILLE

ALEXANDRIA.

Granville, Jan. 31.—The Coshocton Age contains the following regarding Rev. C. M. Eddy, pastor of the Baptist church of that place, who has accepted a call to the Urbana church:

"At the Baptist church Sunday morning Rev. C. M. Eddy tendered his resignation the same to take effect not later than April, at which time he will go to Urbana to take up the work of pastor of the First Baptist church of that place.

"The resignation was accepted by the congregation here but with deep regret, for both Mr. Eddy and his wife are highly esteemed not only by the members of their own church but also by a host of other friends. During the year and half of their residences here they have greatly increased the power of their own church both temporally and spiritually and have seen many of their hopes and plans bear fruit. Mr. Eddy is generally regarded as one of the strongest men in a Coshocton pulpit today. His successor has not been decided upon. Mrs. Eddy, who is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Harford of Granville, lived at one time near Urbana, her father having a charge in Champaign county."

A petition hanging in the postoffice asking Governor Wilson of Kentucky to pardon Caleb Powers the former ex-secretary of state, who has been tried several times on the charge of complicity in the killing of Governor Gobel, is being numerously signed especially by the students of Denison.

Quite a number of students from Illinois, who are attending Denison, have formed an Illinois club, with the following officers: President, W. B. Storms; vice president, Miss Gertrude Louise Phillips; secretary, C. M. Mather; treasurer, Den Hart.

There will be no basket ball game here Saturday evening between Mt. Vernon High and Doane Academy, as previously announced, owing to the fact that Mt. Vernon has cancelled the game.

Word has been received here that William Williams, who some years ago conducted a meat market in Granville, had died at the Soldiers' Home in Dayton a few days ago. The remains were brought to Alexandria where the funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon and the interment was made in the Maple Grove cemetery of that place. Mr. M. M. King, the Granville jeweler, was a nephew of the deceased.

The Toledo Blade contains the following: "Mr. and Mrs. George J. Schermer announce the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude, to Mr. Nelson N. Buckland of Granville. Their marriage will be an event of the early spring."

It is worse than useless to make any certain plans for the future while the grip is the most fashionable disorder.

Mrs. F. H. Buxton entertained a few friends Wednesday with a thimble party. She will entertain with another thimble party Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Headley of Bucyrus, who have been visiting friends here for the past week, left for Columbus Friday morning, where they will make a short visit with their son Alfred before returning home.

The oldest inhabitant will soon be around to tell you that the correct time to train fruit trees is just after the pruning knife has been sharpened.

Mrs. H. M. Monroe of Cleveland, after a pleasant visit with friends here has returned home.

Miss Geneva Vandembark of Alexandria, who is visiting at her home here for a few days, and her friend, Mr. Sington of Mt. Vernon were in the city Thursday afternoon.

Miss Ella Wilson of Plymouth, O. is visiting here for a few days.

Mr. James R. Hopley, who has been visiting her parents here, has returned to her home in Bucyrus.

Miss Gertrude Colwell of Washington, D. C., is visiting her uncle, Prof. R. S. Colwell and family at Katahdin.

CLAY LICK.

Quite a number of people attended the cottage prayer meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wharton on last Thursday evening, most of them being young people from the vicinity of Mt. Carmel.

Prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mr. Orville Hartman next Thursday evening, with Mr. John Baggett as leader.

Miss Mabel Thompson is visiting relatives at Union Station.

Mr. John Gatton of Newark, is spending a few days with relatives here this week.
